Creating a high-quality prospectus is an important element of your marketing if you want to attract prospective parents and students. The photography needs to showcase the environment and facilities of your school which can only be achieved through professionally produced images.

As an experienced photographer specialising in schools, I have the background and understanding to capture those essential pictures. As a qualified drone pilot, I can also take aerial photographs to give you a unique overview of your school. Aware that the smooth running of your school relies on a daily routine, when onsite I work efficiently to ensure there is minimal disruption.
